The Soap Box (9/25/02)

The Rams are 0-3 and the Rodney Peete led Panthers are 3-0.

Someone please explain to me the difference again between parity and mediocrity?

Michael Chiklis and anyone else who won an Emmy for a drama series in a year in which the Sopranos weren't eligible, because they didn't make any new episodes in over a year, should probably consider themselves the Houston Rockets of television awards. Remember the Rockets won those two titles when Michael Jordan decided to chase breaking balls in the bus leagues.

I saw that 'Guns 'n Roses' thing on the VMA's this year. Everyone was all jumping around, excited like the fucking Beatles had gotten back together. Guns 'n Roses? What the fuck? Maybe I didn't see them, but were Slash, Izzy, Duff and Steven Adler on the stage?

Guns 'n Roses my ass. That's like Steven Tyler going solo and calling it Aerosmith, or Jagger cutting Keith, Wyman and the band and calling himself the Rolling Stones.

What a sham.

I'm taking my son out to the ballpark for Father/Son day. You get in half price, a free bobble-head, and we get to pummel a base coach of our choice. You gotta hand it to baseball, they're really trying to reach out to the kids.

Seriously though, is there any more sure sign that society is crumbling before our eyes, than seeing the replays of those two low rent, white trash motherfuckers coming out of the stands and beating up that Royals first base coach? What the fuck? And seriously didn't you wish that they would have let the players just work those guys a little longer? . . . a lot longer?

Assholes.

I gotta make a public apology to Oscar De La Hoya. I really thought Fernando Vargas was gonna kick his ass. I had been talking about that fight with some buddies at work and was sure De La Hoya would lose. Vargas just seemed way more pissed and hungrier. Plus, I've always thought Oscar had a little sugar in his tank. I mean he's cutting lame CD's and shaking his ass like he's Ricky Martin, and never seems like he wants any part of boxing.

It was a hell of a fight and Oscar kicked Vargas' ass. Stopping him with a brutal left in the 11th round. Sugar or no sugar, I'll never doubt the Golden Boy again.

I heard Dennis Rodman is dating Janine or Janeane, whatever, you know the porn star. Whenever I hear someone is dating a porn star I always think the same thing. Guys get PAID to fuck your girlfriend, buy you fuck her for free.

There's just something wrong there.

I read on ESPN that there are allegations of rampant marijuana use by the New York Mets players.

Yeah, you think?

Lastly: The New York state lottery numbers for the night of September 11th were 9-1-1.

Think about that one . . .

Until next time.
