ITS TIME TO TAKE OUT THE TRASH

June 2009

After a two month hiatus I finally saw something that pissed me off enough to actually write something, even if it is on the type of subject I vowed not to write about again. You see I had vowed that I would only write light hearted jokey pieces like "Hog the Bounty Hunter" from now on. I guess this is just proof that you can't teach an old dog new tricks.

I just read that 100 children are suing the Obama administration over the deportation their illegal alien parents. Call me a heartless son of a bitch, but FUCK them and fuck the piece of shit lawyer, who put this lawsuit together. In fact FUCK our legal system that even allows this kind of shit to happen. For all the people who are saying "but they are just children, you can't take their parents away from them" ....Fuck you! I'm sorry mommy and daddy chose to give birth to you here in this country for free at the expense of our tax payers. I'm sorry they chose not to try and exercise their rights to try and become a legal U.S. Citizen. I know this is strange for you because you are accustomed to a world where an entire country will bend over backwards so you and your family can survive and enjoy life here even if you can't speak english and don't pay taxes. Hell, we will even force our own children to learn your language just so they can communicate with you since you are in their class at school. When is enough enough? Now the legal system will give these children a large sum of cash so they can go back to their parents country origin and join their now wealthy family. God bless America, where the minority rules the majority. The good old U.S.A. has become a free meal ticket. Bring us your tired, your hungry, and your poor, because we will foot the bill at the expense of our own well being. I just wish I was the judge, because my ruling would be in favor of the children, and their settlement would be they get an all expenses paid vacation to join Dick Cheney on a hunting trip.

Speaking of Dick Cheney. Is there an uglier human being than Dick Cheney? You may think I am after reading this....hahahaha. Is it just me or would anyone else like to see Dick Cheney have a massive stroke at the top of a long flight of stairs. I just hope it happens after he takes the kids hunting....
It's time take out the trash!
